Technology Museum Special Exhibit: How did people use to listen music?

Cassette player CD player gramophone radio record player MP3 player

In the early 1900's,
People used to listen to concerts on the radio.
Families used to sit in their homes together and player
Hear music in the evening.

In the 1920's. many people Used to use the gramophone.
It was like an early record

With a large horn for the sound People didn't need to wait for a concert on the radio, They used To put a metal record to hear their favorite songs _____

Records used to be expensive,
But in the 1940's, companies Started making them out of plastic.
use
People used to buy a lot of this records
They used to listen to the music on one side And turn it over and listen to the other side.

in the 1960's, people used small square cassette tapes to listen To music, the tapes were easier to than records, people used the fast forward to hear the next song or rewind to hear a song again.

In the 1980`s, peopled Used to play music in small Flat discs called CD`S.
People didn`t need to turn the Fast forward to hear the other Side. the CD`S lasted longer Than a cassette tape.
They didn`t use to break very often.

Today, people use all these technologies, but they also use MP3 players, these players store music electronically. People didn`t use to store a lot of music in one place, but they do!!

Por favor no imprimir haz los dibujos en el cuaderno.
Favor de enviarme el examen diario por wa personal. Lo checo y envio correcciones
